RENOTAKES KINDLY TO FACTORY

Its Citizens Subscribe Liberally For Stock And Enterprise Moves Along.

I. H. Kent, Charles Cirac, Thomas Dolf and R. L. Douglass, representing the Nevada Sugar Company, arrived in Reno last night and will be here for several days soliciting subscriptions to the stock of the Nevada Sugar Company. They state that they are not here asking for any donations and are not asking anyone to buy stock for the good of the county. They are selling the stock purely as a business investment and already quite an amount has been subscribed. Mr. Dolf says that they expected to be here for only a day but that they may remain for a longer time, although they all have many men at work haying in Churchill county and should be "on the job" seeing that the hay crop is properly handled.

He says that Fred and Henry Heinze are now busy at Santa Ana but that they will arrive in Fallon in a short time and that they will then take active charge of the work and see that it is rushed right along to completion.

"We intend to have the factory built and in operation by September, 1911, and when it is completed it will cost $600,000," said Mr. Dolf this morning. "We are already burning the brick for the factory and hope to have the building under way in a short time. The company at the present time owns twenty acres and has arranged to secure 360 acres more, so that there will be plenty of land. All the farmers in Churchill county will plant sugar beets and there will be an abundance for the operation of the factory. We are now arranging to have a mile spur track built from Fallon to the factory site. The factory will have a capacity of 500 tons daily and the stock of the company is sure to be a paying investment."—Thursday's Gazette.

T. L. ODDIE OUT FOR GOVERNOR

That Tasker L. Oddie will rightly well contest with Judge Massey, the republican machine nominee, for popular selection at the republican primaries as candidate for governor, was made known yesterday by the receipt of a letter in which the man from Nye sets forth his candidacy in clear and unequivocal terms.

The Journal yesterday received the following:

Luckyboy, Nev., June 18, 1910.
Editor Nevada State Journal,
Reno, Nevada.

Dear Sir:—
Pursuant to your recent request that I should notify you upon my reaching a final and definite decision regarding my candidacy for the governorship, I wish to say that I shall be a candidate for the republican nomination for that office at the primary election to be held on September 6th next.

Respectfully yours,

T. L. ODDIE.

The announcement confirms, if need be, the fact that within the ranks of the republican party this year will be much dissension as has perhaps never before been seen in any party.—Journal.

State papers are complaining of the slowness with which candidates don their fighting togs. In this, like most other things, Churchill county leads. From the number of gladiators willing to enter the fray, one must know that political courage is not lacking in these parts. And still we have bashful ones holding out for more encouragement. Get in the game boys, and add your name to this paper's growing list of candidates.

NEWSPAPERMEN RUN AMUCK

Of Judge Pike's Court and Will Be Fined For Contempt.

As the result of an article published in the Reno Weekly, headed "What Did Boyd Say To Judge Pike?" which through insinuation casts a reflection on the honesty and integrity of Judge Pike and Attorney James Boyd, criminal libel suits have been started by Attorney Boyd against Douglas Shelor, business manager of the paper; J. M. Conella, one of its writers, and others whose names are not known at this time, but who will probably include John Considine, the editor of the paper, and perhaps a certain Reno attorney, whose name has not been made known up to this writing.

In addition to the criminal libel suits on application of Attorney James Boyd, represented by Lewers & Henderson, writs of attachment were issued out of Judge Pike's court Saturday afternoon directing Sheriff Ferrel to bring Shelor, Conella and others before his court to show cause why they should not be found guilty and punished for contempt of Court.

Shelor and Conella were arrested on the criminal libel charge, Shelor to be heard Thursday and Conella Monday, both being released pending the hearing.

In the article which has resulted in the arrest of these men, and will probably result in the arrest of others, the Reno Nevada Weekly states that Judge Pike spoke to Jim Boyd during a recess of the Court in the case of Edwards against Little, and a little later instructed the jury to bring in a verdict in favor of W. H. Edwards, the plaintiff in a case against Julian McCarthy Little and G. W. Phillips.

Edwards was Boyd's client in the case, and the paper insinuates that there was collusion between the Court and Attorney Boyd.

Judge Pike states that he also intends to file complaints for criminal libel against Shelor, Conella and their associates, and that he will bring the matter direct before the Grand Jury.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS TO CELEBRATE FOURTH

To the Sunday Schools of Churchill county, greeting:

You are cordially invited to join in a monster Sunday School celebration to be held in J. W. Ferguson's grove, one half mile south of Fallon on July 4th.

Let every Sunday School come in a body carrying a banner with name of Sunday School; carry also our national flag. Let us join together in a proper observance of our national holiday, become acquainted and consider problems of Sunday School work common to all. Look for a full program and further instruction next week.

R. M. SIMMONS,
President of County International Sunday School Union.

THE BOND ISSUE MEASURE

Will Undoubtedly Become a Law During The Present Week.

Congress before adjournment will pass a bill authorizing the transfer from the Federal treasury to the reclamation fund of not less than $20,000,000 and perhaps as much as $30,000,000 to hasten the completion of Government irrigation projects. This money is to be returned to the treasury when the projects are completed and repayments made by settlers.

The action of the House ways and means committee last Friday in reporting a $20,000,000 bill is guarantee that at least this much will be extended to the West, for the influence that compelled that committee to act contrary to wishes of the majority of its members will force the bill through the House.

When the bill goes back to the Senate, Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has led this irrigation fight from the outset, will move and insist upon an amendment raising the amount of the loan to $30,000,000.

Borah declares with emphasis that he will not listen to talk of a compromise, but will fight to the limit of his endurance for $30,000,000, which amount in the judgment of Secretary Ballinger, is necessary to complete irrigation projects.

Borah says that there is more reason for granting $30,000,000 than $20,000,000, for $20,000,000 will not complete all the projects, and would mean either that some projects will be abandoned or that none can be completed under the terms of this loan.

Surprising as it may seem, several Western Senators, notably Carter of Montana, chairman of the irrigation committee, are inclined to accept the House bill, while others talk of compromising on $25,000,000. Senator Jones, of Washington, is opposed to a compromise, except as a last resort, while Senator Heyburn is standing firmly behind Borah.

In committee Representative Ellis, with the backing of two Republicans and four Democrats, resisted the efforts of Chairman Payne, Dalzell and other Easterners to reduce the amount of the bill from $30,000,000 to $20,000,000, but he was outvoted, as he was also when he opposed the amendment repealing section 9 of the reclamation law.

Because Speaker Cannon, Payne, Dalzell and other powerful Eastern leaders are at heart opposed to this entire proposition and have yielded only under intense pressure, there is little likelihood that the house, when it first votes upon the bill, will consent to any amendments that may be offered by any of the Western members. The only hope of getting a satisfactory bill is in the Senate, and as things now stand, the West must look to Senator Borah, of Idaho, to protect it against the unfriendly influences that dominate the House of Representatives.

One of the biggest Republicans in the Senate has said that if Borah stood pat the House eventually would be forced to back down and accept his terms.

If Borah wins this victory, it will be such a one as comes to few Senators in their public career. The whole burden of this struggle is now on his shoulders, and should he relent there would be no chance whatever of getting $30,000,000 for reclamation. The ways and means committee reported what in effect is the original House bill, which is to be considered under a special rule. After it passes the house it will go to the Senate, where the Western Senators will eliminate the objectionable features added by the house committee in the form of amendments and then be sent to conference. The Western Senators have decided to hold up the withdrawal bill until this irrigation bill is disposed of.

PROJECT IN DEPENDABLE STATE

Charitable Impulses of Power Companies Governs the Water Supply.

The only disturbing phase of the water supply question in this project at the present time lies in the fact that the charitable impulses of the power companies that control the outlet to Lake Tahoe govern the project's supply of irrigation water. Just now, more than half of the water being used comes from the lake, with the amount furnished by the Truckee river proper, and the Carson river, constantly decreasing. Within another thirty days without the Lake Tahoe surplus a real drought would be on in these parts.

In connection with this subject it is not at all probable that the power companies would refuse to allow the surplus waters of the lake to be used in the Truckee-Carson system. In the meantime, to guard against possibility of this condition, it is necessary that the Carson dam be built without delay. It is noteworthy that the strongest recommendations have been made to the department by all of the government's field of officials, for the building of the proposed dam. With the passage of the reclamation bond issue it is not thought that the work on this project will be long delayed.

The lower Carson dam site is 11,000 acres in extent and will hold when the proposed dam is completed something like 290,000 acre feet. The dam has not been designed, although the type has practically been determined as being of the gravity, rock filled kind, to cost something like $750,000. It would not be surprising to those who are in a position to know something of the progress of reclamation affairs, if the work on this dam should be started under way by the government during the present year.

RENO-FALLON MOTOR CAR SERVICE

Appropos the movement to have a motor car service inaugurated between this point and Reno, the following excerpt from a communication to State Senator R. L. Douglass from the Reno Commercial Club proves that the proposal of Mr. Douglass and others has met with a hearty response on the part of the Renaites and that in all probability the service will be established at an early date. It is proposed to run from Reno to Fallon in the morning and back to Reno in the afternoon, making stops of but one minute in Hazen.

"At the last meeting of the Board of Directors, Mr. R. L. Fulton stated that you had asked him to have the Club take up with the Southern Pacific Co., the matter of establishing a motor car service between Fallon and Reno. A committee, consisting of Mess. Darling, Shair and Roberts, was appointed to take this matter up with Mr. J. F. Hixson, D. P. A. here."

TAFT FORCING MEASURES THROUGH

Abandoning a trip to New Haven to see his son graduate from Yale and announcing that he would stay in Washington "All Summer" if need be, President Taft today began his first open fight with the United States Senate.

The Postal Savings Bank Bill is the issue between the white House and the north wing of the Capitol. The President insists that the Senate adopt the House bill. Several insurgents and some of the regulars are opposed to the House bill. The President sent today for several of the recalcitrant Senators. He is said to be thoroughly aroused over the situation.

A number of Goldfield residents and prospectors on the desert are looking for a certain individual who in an attempt to capture wild horses for the California horse market is endangering the lives of not only all animals in the southern country but also of prospectors on the desert. He placed a large tub or trough of water near a corral and into this poured a narcotic. Wild horses drank the water and became dazed, so that he was able to catch them. In this way he was successful for a few nights and caught quite a number. Next time he put in too much of the narcotic and killed a number of horses and some domestic stock was killed. The inhabitants warned him not to continue the practice. He refused to obey them and went to another place to carry out his scheme for catching horses.

LODGE AFFAIRS IN RENO

Fallon Man Honored By Highest Office In State Odd Fellowship.

The 36th annual encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Nevada assembled at Odd Fellows' hall in Reno Monday and elected the following officers:

Last night the Rebekahs tendered an elaborate reception to the members of the encampment and the grand lodge with W. I. Kuykendall, grand sire of the order for the entire world as the guest of honor. Hundreds of Rebekahs from Reno, Sparks and neighboring cities of the state were in attendance and the affair was one of the most brilliant from a social standpoint in the history of the orders in Nevada.

Today the grand lodge will assemble. Already 26 subordinate lodges through out Nevada are represented.

The Rebekah assembly will also occur today.

Captain John Dunbar, who was elected grand patriarch, came to Nevada in 1871 and was made an Odd Fellow in Mt. Davidson lodge No. 3. In 1882 he received the encampment degree in Santa Rosa encampment No. 53, was lieutenant of Canton Santa Rosa No. 23 from 1887 to 1900. He retired in 1902 at his own request with the rank of major. He now resides at Fallon, where he is employed with the I. H. Kent Company.

The reception last night was under the auspices of Nevada Rebekah lodge No. 7, which during the evening presented a floral drill pronounced the most artistic of its kind ever given by the Rebekahs in Reno.

Six applicants received the Rebekah degree during the evening.

After the regular lodge work the members and guests repaired to the banquet hall, where refreshments appropriate to the state of the weather were served to over 300.—Tuesday's Journal.

A pair of Hazen candidates have already filed their verification deputy affidavit, the first of the list.

C. P. Cirac was up from Stillwater yesterday attending to business and talking politics.

NO WATER SHORTAGE THIS YEAR

Measurements At Lake Tahoe Show An Apundance for All Purposes.

If the following article, clipped from the Sacramento Bee bearing a Truckee, California, date line, is to be believed, the fears of local people that a shortage of water may be incurred by this project pending the time when the Carson dam can be completed seems to be groundless.

"David Hayes, engineer in the Reclamation Service of the United States, has just measured the water in Lake Tahoe and finds that the lake, even at this late date, is within seven inches of the maximum mark and that there are 600,000 acre feet of water above the bottom of the outlet gates. Up to this time very little water has been allowed to flow from the lake, nearly all the water flowing in the Truckee river coming from other sources. The lake supply will now be drawn on for the benefit of irrigators under the Truckee-Carson project, and the various power and manufacturing enterprises along the Truckee will be benefited at the same time."

FALLON CONTRACTORS LAND BIG JOB

Wildes, Robinson & Hammond received word last week of the acceptance of their bid on three miles of fluming for the Eastern Oregon Land & Development Company, to be constructed at a point near Lakeview, where the Berney brothers are now working. Altogether something like two million of feet will enter into the construction of the flume and it is figured that something like a year will be required to complete the contract.

One member of the firm will leave within a few days for the Lakeview section and will be joined shortly afterwards by another, while Mayor M. L. Wildes will remain in Fallon throughout the summer to complete the local contracts of the firm.

For heaters, go to Jones & McCall. All kinds at reasonable prices. tfo.

AN INDEPENDENT POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

I beg to announce to the voters of Churchill County, that because of a technical construction of the new primary law passed by the last legislature, in order to come before the primaries it might be held necessary for a candidate to reside here for a period of eight months prior to the November election, instead of six months as required for Independent candidates.

Consequently, my arrival here on Feb. 11th, last, leaves me five days short of the required eight months necessary if I went into the primaries, and for that reason, rather than run any risk of technical complications, I deem it advisable to ask your support for the office of District Attorney as an Independent Democratic Candidate under the old law, and I hereby so announce myself as an independent candidate for said office of District Attorney at the coming election to be held on Nov. 8th, 1910.
